

Print Writing Practice

Name: _____ Date: _____

At half-past five there was a rattle of wheels outside. A large carriage was there to take us to the Altona railway station. It was soon piled up with my uncles

multifarious preparations.

"Wheres your box?" he cried.

"It is ready," I replied, with faltering voice.