

Crash Course U.S. Government - Day 15

1. What are the three main factors that influence congressmen in making decisions?

2. What are three things that interest groups provide to congressmen?

3. The practice of exchanging political favors, especially trading votes for each others' legislation, is called _____.

4. A united government, when the majority of congress is of the _____ party as the President, is more effective at passing legislation. A _____ government, when the majority party in Congress is a different party than the President, is less likely to pass large pieces of legislation.