

It is a capital mistake to theorize in advance of the facts. Insensibly one begins to twist facts to suit theories instead of theories to suit facts.

Sherlock Holmes, "A Scandal in Bohemia"