

While there is life there is hope. I beg to assert . . . that as long as a man's heart beats, as long as a man's flesh quivers, I do not allow that a being gifted with thought and will can allow himself to despair.

Jules Verne, "Journey to the Center of the Earth"